

PennState
College of Nursing

Message From the Dean

Dean's Update to Students March 23, 2020

Dear Students:

As we enter our second week of remote learning (didactic and clinical), reports from faculty and program leaders are that you are doing what needs to be done to continue your semester. None of us are happy that we needed to move to remote teaching/learning, but we are all working together to continue our programs at the highest level of excellence. We are all so proud of you.

For Seniors, if you haven't seen it yet, check out the YouTube message <https://youtu.be/z2iK0jrNprs> from Alums to you! There is a specific shout out for nursing! As future alumni, you are already loved!

There has been no additional news or changes impacting students since last Friday, which is good news. I know many of you have concerns beyond teaching/learning needs and we are continuing to work on those both within the College and throughout the University.

Just a reminder to students; there is a Virtual Town Hall tomorrow (LiveEvents.psu.edu) from 3:00-4:30pm with the President and Provost and you can submit questions in advance. More information can be found on our website.

Know we are here for you. We are...Penn State Nursing

Be well,
Dean Laurie